Funds For Probation

HARRISBURG, Jan. 28 (P)—More money for county probation work and better ways of using it was urged by Pennsylvania judges today instead of transferring that phase of court work to the state level.

Theft Of Bonds

MONTREAL, Jan. 28 (P)—Thieves took $1,800,000 worth of negotiable bonds from the vaults of a Montreal trust company and bank over the weekend. It was one of the largest robberies in Montreal's history.

Clamor For Hearings

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (P)—A clamor by many shippers to be heard on the railroad's proposed new freight rates increases today led to postponement of the planned effective date from Feb. 1 to Feb. 15.

No Free Milk

HARRISBURG, Jan. 28 (P)—The State Milk Control Commission today noted that it was a violation of law for milk dealers to provide free milk for new babies.

Sing Sing Pension

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (P)—Joe Foy, convicted extortionist and former labor leader, testified today he had been awarded a special $12,600-a-year pension by a union local that put his wife on the payroll while he served time in Sing Sing.

Convicts In Cells

DEER LODGE, Mont., Jan. 28 (P)—Rebellious convicts at the Montana prison were locked in their cells today, ending a 30-hour demonstration.

Reuther Calls For Restraint On Prices

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (P)—Walter Reuther today called for government intervention to restrain prices.

He proposed that Congress make all big corporations justify their price increases in advance before a special government agency.

The proposal by Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers Union, would affect scores of corporations in many industries. However, he was particularly critical of the Big Three auto makers in his testimony before the Senate Anti-trust and Monopoly subcommittee.

Reuther said the big auto-makers are "socially irresponsible" in the way they establish car prices. He said that if all manufacturers followed the pricing policies of General Motors, Ford and Chrysler, the nation would be in a major depression.

Monopoly Position

The union leader argued that the Big Three have a monopoly position that enables them to "rig" prices without regard to supply and demand.

He proposed that Congress create a special agency before which large corporations would have to present detailed records in justification for proposed price increases.

Such an agency wouldn't be empowered to block price boosts, he said, but it would be required to publish findings based on the case made for such increases.

This system would tend to keep prices within reasonable bounds, he said, because "the public would have the means to determine for itself whether or not the price increase was justified."

The scheme would apply only to corporations which control 20 or 25 per cent of the sales in their industries. In the auto industry, that would be General Motors and Ford and, perhaps, Chrysler.

An independent consumers counsel would represent the public in the proceedings.

Base On Moon Of Importance

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (P)—An Air Force space expert said today a U.S. base on the moon would provide a retaliation base of unequalled advantage.

Brig. Gen. Homer A. Boushey, deputy director for research and development, made that comment in a talk before the Aero Club of Washington.

Yesterday's Deaths

KENNETH W. Henry, 52, died at his home, 107 N. 7th St., Stroudsburg, yesterday at 1:30 a.m.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 28 (P)—Gov. Leader's blue ribbon conference on education expressed an overwhelming sentiment today against so-called "snap" courses in high school.

And the governor himself came up with a suggestion that high school graduation be contingent upon passing a uniform examination incorporating minimum state-wide standards.

Dr. Charles H. Boehm, superintendent of public instruction, said at the close of the first day of a conference of more than 300 educators and citizens:

"The significant thing we have found here today is that educators and laymen are generally in agreement in their thinking on school problems."

Dr. Boehm told a news conference that science and mathematics questionnaires answered by 275 of the participants indicated possible future action to:

1. Reduce the number of study periods in school and increase the length of the school day to make room for more basic courses like science, mathematics and English.
2. Reduce the pupil choice as to the number and nature of the courses for which he can enroll, cutting down so-called "snap" courses.
3. Require that general science be required of all pupils.
4. Give the students more home work.

It was a day of give-and-take among the conferees who represented a blue ribbon cross-section of Pennsylvania's education figures. No holds were barred. Participants were told to speak out.

The governor set the theme of frankness in the conference with a disclosure that less than one-third of the more than 800 high schools in Pennsylvania have been accredited by a college-sponsored association seeking to improve school standards.

"The high school diploma no longer has the value, the prestige, it once had," he said, in talking about his uniform high school graduation examination.

"We shall restore the diploma to its former value only by raising our standards of graduation."

At present, individual school districts fix the standards for high school graduation on the basis of what Leader described as "shockingly few" state requirements.

Leader wandered in and out of the workshop sessions. Twenty-five groups of 12 persons each met separately and discussed the entire range of problems in mathematics, science and English instruction.

A TENTATIVE budget calling for a tax rate of 19 mills, including two mills for debt service, was approved for advertising last night by East Stroudsburg Borough Council.

It will be adopted at the March meeting and is subject to change until that time.

The 19 mills rate is the same as last year. The prospect of an increase in millage was raised during the meeting by Burgess Jesse R. Flory.

Flory pointed out that estimated receipts in the general operating fund are $123,667.49, exactly the same as the total expenditures.

He urged an additional two mills be added to the budget to provide for capital expenditures and said any such addition should be carried specifically for that purpose and should not be available in the event of an operating deficit.

'March' Funds Reach $4,300

CONTRIBUTIONS REACHED approximately $4,300 at a late hour last night as over 300 women completed the "Mother's March on Polio" in Monroe County.

Dorothy Storms, director of the "march" revealed that the total is certain to go over the $4,300 mark as many districts in the county hadn't been heard from as the banks closed. Last year's final reading was approximately $4,900.

Both the Stroudsburg Security Trust Co. and East Stroudsburg National Bank remained open to a late hour last night to collect donations turned in by area captains.

The "march" chairman also revealed that several districts had presented only partial results.

Collections will be accepted at both banks today.

Baghdad Pact Allies Form Military Planning Staff

ANKARA, Turkey, Jan. 28 (P)—The Baghdad Pact allies today established a combined military planning staff. This could serve as the forerunner to a NATO-type unified command in the Middle East.

The five-nation alliance, with U.S. backing, announced that the enlarged combined staff will take the place of the present planning organization.

Informed sources said the move was a step toward tying together more closely the loose military organization of the anti-Communist Pact. The decision was taken at a secret session of the Pact's Council of Ministers.

Long Term Plan

Earlier the Baghdad powers—Britain, Iran, Iraq, Turkey and Pakistan—approved a long-term plan for establishing a strategic system of highways, airfields, ports and radio communications from the Aegean to the Arabian Sea.

The United States is not a full pact member, but U.S. Secretary of State Dulles is attending as an observer.

The Pact's Council of Ministers approved a report of its military committee recommending the long-term defense building project, whose cost would run into billions of dollars.

Storage Facilities

The military committee's plans called for a communications hook-up from West Turkey to Pakistan, with trunk and lateral highways.

Harbor and storage facilities would be made available at sea-ports on the Mediterranean, Persian Gulf and the Arabian Sea.

The military committee recommended that any major assault from the north be met as far as possible in the mountain passes between Russia and Turkey, Iraq and Iran.

Civilians Back Regime In Venezuela

CARACAS, Venezuela, Jan. 28 (P)—The patriotic junta of civilians that triggered the revolution against ex-dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez climbed off the fence today and gave its full support to Venezuela's new regime.

Fortified by this civilian support, and with the all-out backing of the armed forces, the ruling junta swung into a nationwide purge of the government machinery.

The patriotic junta, headed by the youthful newspaper reporter Fabricio Ojeda, previously had refused to take a stand behind the reshuffled junta which seized the government last week.

Declaration

Apparently satisfied the new regime was not attempting to impose a new dictatorship, the civilian group declared it was giving its full support. However, it called for general elections as soon as possible and urged political parties to observe a truce in the meantime.

The United States recognized the new government today. The U.S. charge d'affaires, Charles Burrows, delivered to Miraflores Palace a note informing the junta of Washington's action.

El Salvador also was added to the list of countries recognizing the new regime.

Venezuela appeared to have settled down to comparative peace. Newly appointed governors in 20 states and two territories took over from ousted Perez Jimenez appointees in the oil-rich republic.

Under arrest was Maj. Juan Perez Jimenez, brother of the exiled dictator, who was held for investigation on charges of official corruption. He was seized when the dictator refused to hold his plane for him, and fled to the Dominican Republic.

Several nominees Members of the squadron selected the "Marine of the Month" from among several nominees, chosen on a basis of proficiency, bearing, disposition, conduct and other similar factors.

"I really appreciate the squadron's action," McKeon said tonight.

McKeon, a staff sergeant at the time of the April 8, 1956, "death march," testified in his celebrated court-martial that he marched recruit Platoon 71 into a tidal stream to teach them discipline. The sky-larking platoon panicked and six drowned. The incident caused a sweeping reorganization of Marine recruit training methods.

Rossellini, linked romantically with Indian script writer Sonali Das Gupta, filed suit for annulment in a Rome civil court Dec. 17. He alleges his marriage to Miss Bergman never existed. In a brief reply Jan. 23, Miss Bergman agreed.

The action became known Monday when reporters spotted it in the court records. The suit asserted that at the time of their proxy

U.S. Blasts Khrushchev For Distortion

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (P)—The United States today accused Soviet Communist party leader Nikita Khrushchev of distorting American policy. It said his twisted views show the danger of rushing into a summit conference with the Russians.

State Department press chief Lincoln White administered a roughly worded rebuke when asked for comment on Khrushchev's remarks at a Minsk farmers rally Wednesday and a Moscow cocktail party later.

Khrushchev pictured the United States as an aggressor who would "like to keep the whole world in a state of fear." He called for a summit conference at which leaders would tackle "simple things" first — as a dinner starts off with hors d'oeuvres.

"Mr. Khrushchev's distorted view of U.S. policies and motivations and of the policies and motivations of some of our Allies emphasized the difficulties which would best a short unprepared meeting of heads of government such as the Soviet government has proposed," White said.

Pushing Idea

White said the United States is still pushing the idea laid down by President Eisenhower in a Jan. 12 letter to Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin. This called for talks at lower levels and possibly a foreign ministers meeting beforehand to prepare any summit conference and assure it of some success.

The U.S. spokesman chided the Soviets for not replying to Eisenhower's letter. He said pointedly "We presume the Soviet Union will reply to the serious proposal."

"We cannot believe that the Minsk speech of the first secretary of the Soviet Communist party or indeed his remarks at the cocktail party are intended as an adequate reply," White added.

Khrushchev told the farmers at Minsk that a summit conference was "urgent" to pave the way for later "complete liquidation of the cold war."

Khrushchev, in a rollicking mood at an Indian Embassy party in Moscow, took up the cudgels again. He said a summit conference could deal with easy things first "like a meal" — and go on to the heavier fare later.

White said Khrushchev's choice of forums — the Minsk farm rally and a cocktail party — could hardly be considered the proper place for a "considered reply" to Eisenhower's "serious proposal."

He said "it is noteworthy" also that Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko made no mention of the Minsk speech when he received U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson the day after it was made.

Thompson visited Gromyko to request an answer to Eisenhower's letter. He did so on orders from Secretary of State Dulles.

Triumph Over Polio

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (P)—Top Democratic leaders of two generations attended a Broadway preview tonight. The play was "Sunrise at Campobello," the story of Franklin D. Roosevelt's triumph over polio.

Groner Among 25 Chairmen Of Panels At Conference To Discuss State Problems

HARRISBURG, Jan. 28 (P)—The chairmen of the 25 panels set up to discuss Pennsylvania school problems at Gov. Leader's two-day conference on education include: Earl F. Groner, Stroudsburg schools superintendent; George A. Bell, principal of Bradford High School; Walter A. Kearney, New Castle schools superintendent; Dr. George H. Parkes, Williamsport schools superintendent; T. Elwood Jones, Centre County schools superintendent; C. Nicely Banner, Armstrong County schools superintendent; Floyd C. Peters, Crawford County schools superintendent; Dr. John B. Butler, Mercer County schools superintendent.

Launching Of Ninth Thor Missile Termed Successful By Air Force Authorities

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., Jan. 28 (P)—The Air Force today successfully test-launched a Thor—the 1,500-mile range rocket with which it plans to try first to hit the moon and then to put a satellite into orbit.

The launching of the 60-foot long ballistic missile was one the Army well may try to emulate in its attempt to send up the Jupiter-C satellite vehicle. That attempt is expected within a day or so.

It also may have been the first launching of a completely assembled Thor, one complete even to the nose cone which is essential to protect the missile's warhead upon its return into the earth's atmosphere toward its target.

Defense Department

In Washington, the Defense Department said the Thor "flew its prescribed course and landed in the pre-selected impact area."

Similar language has been used at the Pentagon to describe successful flights of new missiles.

The Thor, more than 50 tons of fuel and metal, blasted off its launching pad at 3:16 p. m. in bright sunshine.

It seemed to poise for an instant in its own cloud of flame-lit smoke, and then started climbing, slowly at first but with rapid acceleration.

It climbed directly up into the bright, blue sky for several seconds, then angled over slightly toward the southeast but kept on climbing steeply, aiming almost at the half-moon riding high in the afternoon sky.

Two Minutes

About two minutes after take-off the missile started leaving a trail of white smoke in the blue sky. This made it easy for watchers to track its course as the flame of its exhaust dimmed with the rapidly expanding distance.

From all indications at the start, it was one of the most successful of some nine Thor test launchings at this testing center. Four of the previous eight were officially described as successful.

Although the Thor is listed as a 1,500-mile missile, one that was test-flown last Oct. 24 went 2,300 nautical miles, which is 2,645 statute miles.

The Air Force has disclosed it plans to use the Thor as the first stage of a two-stage vehicle to put a satellite into an orbit.

Even before that time, however, there may be an attempt to reach the moon with the big missile as a booster.

Miss Bergman's attorney, Ercole Grazzade, indicated it may be several weeks or even months before Rossellini's petition comes up.

Rossellini has spent much of the last year making documentary films in India. It was there he became linked with the script writer, a mother of two children.

Miss Bergman recently had been linked romantically with Swedish businessman Lars Schmidt. She has said she has no plans for remarriage.

Senate Group Backs Defense Fund Increase

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (P)—One Senate committee voted to authorize an extra 549 million dollars for defense today. Another one talked of raising the $1,410,000,000 total in the emergency missile-defense money bill.

Both measures have already passed the House. The speed with which they are moving along offered a new demonstration of congressional willingness to spend to meet challenges of the space age.

The 549 millions in the authorization bill is also included in the larger money bill. Congress authorizes projects before actually providing the money in separate appropriations bills.

Major items in the 549-million-dollar bill, which was approved by the Senate Armed Services Committee, are $29,670,000 for the semi-automatic ground environment for electronic detection of approaching aircraft and mechanical brain guidance for missiles, $18 million for ballistic missiles bases and $14 million for dispersal of Strategic Air Command bases.

Specific Directions

When the bill left the House it carried specific directions on which SAC bases would be affected. The Senate committee changed this to give the Defense Department authority to review the directions laid down in the House bill.

The talk of boosting the missile-defense appropriation arose in the Senate Appropriations Committee, where Secretary of Defense McNamara was a witness today. He reported the suggestions without giving any immediate reply to them, other than to say capable people had different views on what is most urgently needed.

The secretary's prepared testimony, given behind closed doors, was released to newsmen.

It showed McNamara told the senators that "on the whole our military position is sound."

He referred to the bill, containing some $14 billion in new money plus transfer authority in 150 million in old funds, as an advance action on the defense program for the fiscal year beginning next July.

In another defense development today, Sen. Russell (D-Ga.), chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said he doubts that President Eisenhower's new defense budget of nearly 40 billion dollars provides enough "strength in being."

Rep. Gavin Takes Issue

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (P)—Rep. Gavin (R-Pa.) took issue today with a recent statement by Controller General Joseph Campbell that the United States has set unrealistic military goals for some illies receiving arms from this country.

"I do not reject the judgment of the Joint Chiefs of Staff in favor of the opinions of a coterie of public accountants, certified or otherwise," Gavin wrote in a report to the House Armed Services Committee.

Flory Raises Prospect Of Increase

A TENTATIVE budget calling for a tax rate of 19 mills, including two mills for debt service, was approved for advertising last night by East Stroudsburg Borough Council.

It will be adopted at the March meeting and is subject to change until that time.

The 19 mills rate is the same as last year. The prospect of an increase in millage was raised during the meeting by Burgess Jesse R. Flory.

Flory pointed out that estimated receipts in the general operating fund are $123,667.49, exactly the same as the total expenditures.

He urged an additional two mills be added to the budget to provide for capital expenditures and said any such addition should be carried specifically for that purpose and should not be available in the event of an operating deficit.

Possibilities

Flory cited the need of a borough shed and the possibility of flood control expenditures in urging the additional two mills.

Principal items of income in the tentative budget are $59,000 from real estate taxes, $15,000 from per capita taxes, $6,000 each from delinquent real estate taxes and fines and $12,500 from parking meter receipts.

Among principal expenditures from the general operating funds are a total of $31,675 for police salaries, not including $3,856.50 for school patrols; $6,600 contributions to the borough's volunteer fire departments; $12,233.44 for salaries and wages of borough employees; $12,000 for street lighting and $11,000 for operation and maintenance of garbage, ash and rubbish collection services.

The water fund budget of $124,069 calls for receipts of $65,000 from water sales. Principal expenditures include $25,000 for land purchase and improvement; $20,000 for filter plants; $18,520 for salaries of officers and office employees; $12,000 for construction and extension of the system and $10,000 for purchase of major equipment.

There is a total of $22,437 unappropriated in the water budget.

The highway aid fund budget calls for a total expenditure of $14,724.64. Principal source of income is $12,623.42 in state motor license fund grants.

In Other Action, Council:

Authorized Borough Manager Sterling Cramer to investigate the allocation of costs when residents previously connected onto borough water mains in the Maple Ave. - Berwick Heights Rd. area.

The action was taken after Council approved transfer of two residences from a dead end line to a main to eliminate sedimentation in their water.

Approved removal of a parking meter from the driveway of the Salvation Army building.

World Famous Writer To Speak At Israel Bond Committee's Anniversary Celebration

LEO LANIA, author and playwright, will speak at 8:30 p.m. Sunday at Temple Israel as guest at the Israel 10th anniversary celebration sponsored by the Stroudsburg Israel Bond Committee.

Among his books are "The Foreign Minister," "Traffic in Arms," and "The Darkest Hour."

Lania, whose successful career spans four decades and a wide variety of writing in the fields of journalism and creative writing, has made an extended tour of Arab countries, during which he interviewed Col. Abdel Gamal Nasser of Egypt.

He has served as correspondent for a number of American and European newspapers and periodicals, and is currently engaged as United Nations correspondent for some of the top publications both at home and abroad.

One of his most noteworthy journalistic feats was achieved when, assuming a false name and using falsified credentials, he interviewed Adolf Hitler, and actually lived in the Fuehrer's home for 10 days. He escaped from Germany just ahead of the Nazi Storm Troopers, and was on Hitler's "most wanted" list until V-E day.

Between journalistic assignments, Lania has through the years turned to the writing of plays and books. In addition to writing scores of scenarios for French and German films, he has also been responsible for the creation of many successful comedies and dramas for the stage. He wrote the first screen play that starred Hedy Lamarr, whom he discovered in a Berlin dramatic school.

Born in Russia, Lania's journalistic career began after his graduation from Vienna University, when in 1912 he traveled to Milan to become assistant to Benito Mussolini, who was then editor of the newspaper, Avanti. His career was interrupted when World War I broke out.

Returning to Italy after serving in the Austrian Army, he found Mussolini heading the rapidly rising Fascist movement, which he violently opposed. He wrote frankly of Fascist graft and corruption, criticized Mussolini, and warned of the impending threat to liberty. When Mussolini and his blackshirts marched on Rome in 1922, the journalist was forced to flee the country.

Lania, then found refuge in Berlin, where he obtained a job as assistant to Edgar Ansel Mowrer on the European Staff of the Chicago Daily News. It was at this time, Lania, obtained his interview with Hitler.

Lania has appeared before audiences throughout the United States on behalf of the State of Israel, and the Israel Bond Organization. The State of Israel Bond Issue is the central source of investment capital for Israel's history program of economic development. Proceeds derived through the sale of Israel Bonds are making possible the growth of industry and agriculture, expansion of irrigation, construction of roads, harbors, and railways.

K. W. Henry Dies Suddenly At Home

KENNETH W. Henry, 52, of 107 North Seventh St., Stroudsburg, died suddenly at his home yesterday at 1:30 a.m.

He was born in Blairtown, N.J., the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Henry, and had spent his entire life in this area.

For the past four and one half years he had been employed in the engine turning department of Ronson Corp. Prior to that he operated Henry's Service Station, corner of Ninth and Monroe Sts.

Mr. Henry was a member of Zion Reformed Church, Stroudsburg, Thomas P. Lambert Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Police Reserve of Monroe County.

Service Record—He served in the Army in World War II with Company B, Headquarters Battalion, AGF Replacement Depot. He also had three years of service with the Pennsylvania National Guard.

Mr. Henry is survived by his wife Irene M. and two daughters, Mrs. John C. Walton, and Mrs. Edward LaBar, both of Stroudsburg. Also one granddaughter, Pauletta Diane Ott; one step sister, Mrs. Emma Knowles, Saylorsburg; and two step brothers, Paul Predmore, Mount Bethel and Allen Predmore, Long Branch, N.J.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p.m. from the Daniel G. Warner Funeral Home, Stroudsburg. Rev. Frank Blatt will officiate. Interment will be in Stroudsburg Cemetery.

Friends may call tomorrow after 7 p.m. at the funeral home.

Senate Passes Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—Senate passage today sent to the White House a bill to stiffen penalties for employers who do not turn over to the government federal taxes withheld from employees.

He succeeds the Rev. Dr. Jess H. Norenberg, Madison, superintendent of the Wisconsin Congregational Conference.

The state superintendents council is meeting in connection with the annual midwinter meeting of some 600 officials of the Congregational Christian Church.

In another meeting, delegates elected the Rev. Harry Widman, Cleveland, as president of the Christian Education Council.

Rev. Wade L. Carter of Seattle, Wash., is presiding over sessions of the National Committee on Our Christian World Mission.

He went to the platform today equipped with a baseball bat and an alarm clock because, he said, "some ministers get so enthusiastic in their reports they never would stop talking otherwise."

The alarm has gone off many times, but, if the ministers don't stop talking, Mr. Carter raises the bat. That does the trick.

Lehigh Presbytery Lists Council Recommendation

BETHLEHEM—The Presbytery of Lehigh held its January meeting here at the new church home of the First Presbyterian Church yesterday.

The moderator, Rev. Newell Grimes, presided at the meeting. A communication from Dr. John G. Marvin, secretary of the Committee on Nominations, requested an endorsement for the boards or agencies of the church. The Presbytery recommended the name of Dr. Robert T. Williamson, from the First Church, Easton, to the General Council of the General Assembly.

Presbytery noted that Col. George R. Hedge is resigning as chairman on the Committee of National Missions, and thus commended Col. Hedge for his faithful counsel given during the years of his service as chairman of the Committee on National Missions.

The Ministerial Relations Committee, headed by Rev. H. H. Maue, reported that the Freeland Presbyterian Church has its vacant pulpit filled by Mr. Edward H. Breitback, a senior at Princeton Seminary. The Weatherly Church also stated that its student minister, Mr. Joseph Donchez, will accept the charge at that church after his graduation from Princeton Seminary.

In a statistical report of Presbytery for the year 1957, it was noted that the Presbyterian churches of Lehigh averaged a total gain of over 400 new pupils, officers and teachers in Sunday School departments.

The National Missions Committee stated that the mission church at Emmaus is gaining in membership. Rev. Charles Staples, assistant pastor of the Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church, and Rev. Frank Wingerter, pastor of the East Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church were in attendance at yesterday's meeting.

Pocono Motor Club To Investigate 'Speed Trap'

Board Plans For Annual Meeting

RECEIPT of a number of complaints regarding what has been described as a "speed-trap" in Moore Township, Northampton County, was acknowledged last night by the Pocono Mountains Motor Club.

The board of governors of the club voted to make a searching inquiry into the condition and do anything within its power to eliminate any abuses that may exist in the enforcement of speed laws on the heavily traveled highway, between Wind Gap and Bath.

The board also decided to hold its annual membership meeting April 22 at the Penn-Stroud Hotel. The secretary, Mrs. Cynthia Watt, was instructed to contact Prof. Amos E. Neyhart, at Pennsylvania State University, to determine whether he will be available as the main speaker that night. He originated the idea of providing driver-training instruction in high schools.

Entertainment Program

A program of entertainment is being arranged by a committee headed by Dr. Thomas Larkin and also including Dr. LeRoy J. Koehler, M. F. Crowe and John F. Hill. Present plans call for a buffet supper to be served at the close of the meeting. All members of the club are invited to attend.

M. E. Leffer presided at last night's meeting in the absence of the president, R. LeRoy Dengler, and vice president, John M. Crundall.

Ninety-eight new members were approved by the board. This raises the club membership to 3,060—highest in its history.

The following were elected to membership:

December

Canadensis—Stanley Bender, Carl F. Burnett, Eugene Lee, Allen W. Shore. East Stroudsburg—Donald Burnham, Martin R. Ellsweig, Elizabeth Werby, Herbert Yutz. Echo Lake—Mr. and Mrs. H. Thomas Knittle. ## Petition Being Circulated In Support Of Williams

A PETITION calling upon B. K. Williams to seek reelection as chairman of the Monroe County Republican Committee has been circulated among present committee members.

Of the 66 committee men and women in the county, 63 have signed the petition, according to Raymond Ellenberger, of 379 E. Bryant St., committeeman in Stroudsburg's Fifth Ward.

New Routes Announced For Schools

STROUDSBURG High School principal Alfred Munson announced last night "reminders" for students who use the temporary bridge to the high school and Morey elementary school.

The bridge, which crosses Pocono Creek, was closed temporarily yesterday for repairs and necessitated a new "going to school" schedule today for students and teachers.

Morey Pupils

Morey elementary school pupils living in South Stroudsburg were requested to walk to 10th and Main Sts. at 8:30 a.m. where a bus will be waiting to take them to the school. After school a bus will return the pupils to 10th and Main Sts.

High school students who use the Pocono Creek Bridge were asked to cross the swinging bridge in the rear of Hayne's Garage, Ninth St.

Three Women Injured In Accident

MARTINS CREEK — Three women were injured in a collision between a car and a station wagon on Route 611, two miles north of here, Monday night.

State police of the Easton barracks identified the drivers as Mrs. Ruby Clark Gardner 33, Bangor RD 2, and Mrs. Carolyn Horn, 26, Mount Bethel.

List Of Injuries

Treated by a local physician were Mrs. Gardner, cuts of the forehead and face and possible rib fractures; Mrs. Betty Ackerman, 31, Bangor RD 2, a passenger in the Gardner car, cuts of the forehead and arm bruises, and Mrs. Horn, multiple cuts of the face and possible nose fractures.

Investigators said Mrs. Gardner's car stalled on the road after she backed it from a driveway. It was struck in the rear by the station wagon driven by Mrs. Horn. The car was demolished, while damage to the station wagon was listed at $600.

"We face the unpleasant prospect of coast to coast billboard defacing the landscape unless this Congress takes effective action."

With these words Senator Prescott Bush (R-Conn) introduced a new measure to regulate billboard advertising on the projected 41,000-mile interstate highway system.

The bill would authorize the secretary of commerce to make agreements with the states under which the latter would regulate and control advertising within 660 feet of the rights of way in conformity with standards recommended by the secretary.

An additional three-fourths of one per cent of federal interstate highway funds would be given states entering into such agreements.

The Bush proposal, as well as others with the same purpose which were introduced previously, have been endorsed in principle by President Eisenhower and highway planners, as well as by civic groups, garden clubs and the like.

Mr. Eisenhower mentioned the need for legislation to control the billboards in his budget message. He followed this up with a letter to retired Maj. Gen. U.S. Grant III, President of the American Planning and Civic Assn.

The president said it was desirable that regulation of outdoor advertising be left to the states, but that federal legislation was necessary to assure effective state action.

The measures before Congress are fair in that they would permit some billboards. But they would forbid them near intersections, where they might be dangerous and confusing, and in areas of scenic beauty.

The latter restriction is the one which is of chief concern to the Poconos. Since a considerable portion of our economy depends on the number of visitors we can attract to the Poconos, it is incumbent upon us to demand that proper safeguards be provided the many places of beauty which surround us.

Millions of people are within easy traveling distance of the Poconos. Let's keep them coming on the network of new highways. But, first, let's pass regulatory legislation before the roads, and the billboards, are built.

Opinions Of Other Editors

What About Labor Legislation?

President Eisenhower has submitted to Congress a broad program intended to stop "corruption, racketeering and abuse of trust and power in labor-management relations." Over-all it is a reasonable program and basically the same as the one Secretary of Labor Mitchell outlined before the AFL-CIO convention last December.

But submitting a program and winning congressional approval are two very different things. In forthcoming months, administration and congressional determination to correct conditions that have made possible corruption and double dealing will be tested. The White House must demonstrate vigor in pressing for action if it is to get response from congress.

This administration, alas, has shown rare signs of vigor and leadership. If it now lets its reform program lie before congress or only goes through the motions of supporting it, the election bound congress will probably find excuses for failing to take action, even in the face of continuing revelations by the McClellan Senate subcommittee of evildoing.

The clear need for stricter controls over the multi-billion-dollar pension and welfare funds may lead to legislation. But without sincere and continuing support, all the other Eisenhower proposals — for financial reporting by labor and management, periodic election of union officers by secret ballot, saner curbs on secondary boycotts, restrictions on picketing — will assuredly go down the drain.

Robert S. Allen Reports...

Subpoenas Demanded

Washington, Jan. 28—A new storm is brewing in the stiff-necked House committee investigating government administrative agencies, which may blow it wide open.

Cause of this latest backstage ruckus is a demand for several score subpoenas.

Rep. Morgan Moulder (D., Mo.), chairman of the probe, wants the subpoenas to obtain the financial records of both business and federal officials, particularly on the Securities & Exchange Commission and the Federal Communications Commission.

The request for these explosive subpoenas has been made to Rep. Oren Harris (D., Ark.), head of the Interstate Commerce Committee, the parent body of the eight-member investigating group.

What happens next will largely determine the future of this dynamite-loaded probe.

Also the fate of certain staff members, who are under fire. At a series of private committee sessions, both Republicans and Democrats have been sharply critical of staff plans and activities. Especially assailed have been so-called "leaks" to the press about charges concerning government officials.

The demand for the several score subpoenas is an unpublished five-page opinion by Comptroller General Joseph Campbell on the propriety of administrative authorities accepting gifts and other "favors" from business sources.

That is sternly condemned by Campbell.

His overall disapproving conclusion is as follows:

"Such practice is not in keeping with the conduct which the public demands of government officials and should not be condoned, thus avoiding any appearance of favoritism whatsoever."

Reading the Law — Chairman Moulder requested Comptroller General Campbell's views after the staff reported that regulatory officials, and in some instances their wives, had received expensive gifts and money.

One case involved a commissionaire charged with being consulted by his former law firm about a client accused of violations of the commissionaire's agency.

Campbell's critical reply is yet to be considered by the investigating subcommittee and the full Interstate Commerce Committee. What they will do with it remains to be seen.

Not only does he condemn taking "favors" from business, but he also indicates prosecution may be called for under certain circumstances.

"It is our view," states Campbell, "that Section 1314, Title 18 of United States Code, prohibits an officer or employee of a U.S. agency from receiving per diem and traveling expenses from the government, and, in addition, having any part of his expenses paid either directly or indirectly by an individual, association, or corporation, subject to that agency's regulatory authority."

In analyzing the statutes applying to these matters, the Comptroller General stresses the importance of officials exercising discretion and restraint.

Following are highlights of this significant study, of which more is certain to be heard:

"It would seem inconsistent for this statute to prohibit the supplementing of the salary of an officer or employee from an outside source, and not prohibit an indirect benefit given to the officer's or employee's wife. In any event, this practice would not appear to be in keeping with the high standards of conduct which should be expected from government officers and employees."

"The question always arises as to the line between the proper and improper in the acceptance of gifts, favors or gratuities. . . . It is difficult to believe that an occasional luncheon or dinner is improper, or more than a courteous gesture. . . . Lavish or frequent entertainment, gifts, paying of hotel bills, traveling costs, and allowances in purchasing, certainly do not fall in that category."

"The General Accounting Office has adopted a code governing the conduct of officers and employees. Other agencies of the government have adopted similar codes of conduct which are strictly enforced."

Note — Harris has asked Moulder to check on a possible conflict-of-interest case in his investigating staff. According to Harris, this staff member has an interest in a Florida TV station.

Flashes — Rep. Charles Diggs, Jr. (R., Mich.) is circulating a petition among House colleagues asking President Eisenhower to "take immediate action to alleviate conditions of substantial and persistent unemployment in economically depressed areas." So far around 50 Republicans and Democrats have signed the appeal. Diggs plans to send it to the White House later this week.

Senator Joseph Clark (D., Pa.) is pressing hard for the vacancy on the Labor Committee caused by the death of Senator Matthew Neely (D., W.Va.). Senator Frank Lautner (D., O.) also wants this choice assignment, but is being vigorously opposed by committee leaders.

Fork In The Road

George Sokolsky Says...

Joe Goes Free

Joe's trial for committing a dog nuisance finally reached the calendar. Joe was accused of having performed biologically in the wrong place at the wrong time when his only malfeasance was to have escaped from his leash for a few minutes. A Sanitation employee garbed in the blue of a policeman, wearing a cap and badge that resembled a policeman's gave Joe a ticket and to me, Joe is forever disgraced for he neither barked at nor bit the guy.

So the case came to trial and the Sanitation guy testified that Joe was a cocker spaniel. Now, we, in our family, do not go in for discrimination, racism or such diversions. Nevertheless we want to make it clear to all and sundry that Joe is no cocker spaniel, that he never was a cocker spaniel and has no intention of ever being a cocker spaniel. Joe is a keeshond, pronounced kayshond, and Joe's ancestors go back to William of Orange's time.

His proper name is Walsdaag, but I ask you, can you imagine running around with a name like Walsdaag? It is like calling a fine, normal, healthy juvenile Montmorency. When we received Joe's pedigree, it was a matter of deep family concern. Nobody in our family has such a long pedigree. True, I know about some of my ancestors on my mother's side, but my father's ancestors must have been peaceful, respectable folk who left no foot-prints on the sands of time. We did not want Walsdaag to be too snooty and to feel that he was better than the rest of us. So we called him Joe, after the late Senator from Wisconsin.

But then this Sanitation guy in a cop's uniform called Joe, who came from an heroic line of keeshonds who fought and died to keep the Spanish tyrants out of the Netherlands, a cocker spaniel, which is a sweet little lap dog that ladies carry about with them. No lady could carry Joe, not far. He is a big dog, masculine in all his propensities.

It just goes to show that class distinctions are disappearing in this world. Here is a Sanitation guy who specializes in annoying dogs, and he cannot tell the difference between one dog and another. It is like calling a Greek an Italian, or an inhabitant of Genoa, a Sicilian.

Such name-calling has led to dire consequences, because we are all proud of our ancestors, if not of our ancestors, and we fight for our racial purity as long as no one goes back far enough, say, to the time when the Celts were in Macedonia. But when that was so, who was in Ireland? It is questions like these which start wars. Therefore, let us abate, or as the Senators say, yield.

So Joe went to trial and was accused of being a cocker spaniel. Obviously, this Sanitation dog-watcher had the wrong dog, in the wrong place, committing the wrong crime on the wrong day. There was nothing the Magistrate could do but declare Joe and his maid not guilty and that put an end to that.

We were prepared to go to the Supreme Court on this issue and had our cause fully prepared. Because the issue is tyranny. After all, if the police of any ilk prepare their summonses in advance, date them incorrectly, the impression is given to the citizen that these lawenforcers are required to produce evidence that they actually work for their pay. Maybe a fellow can work it this way: give out a ticket at 7:45 a.m. and another at 4 p.m. and that proves that he has been at work all day when actually he was comfortably being playing gin rummy.

Or maybe a fellow makes out his summonses for Thanksgiving Day just to prove that he worked on that day, getting time and a half, when as a matter of fact, he was actually at his mother-in-law's eating turkey stuffed with macaroni and oregano. Who knows what wiles men employ to consume the taxpayers' largesse?

However, Joe is now declared not guilty and the Sanitation Squad has been proved ignorant of the difference between a cocker spaniel and a keeshond, which anybody would know who owned a tape measure and could look a dog in the eye.

The Once Over

by H. I. Phillips

New England Judge has ruled that in domestic cases husbands can serve jail terms on the installment plan, going to jail Friday night and getting out Monday morning, so that they can retain jobs while serving sentence. If you don't show up for three weekends the police can repossess you. Not bad, unless it is extended to big time hoodlums, whose lawyers would make plea "Yerroner, my client is not in a position to pay his debt to society in one lump, and I request he be allowed to do this stretch two days down and one day a week."

It's hard to place an order with a businessman these days; they're too busy arguing over whether there is a business depression—to wait on customers. . . . New play on road stages the Lincoln-Douglas debates for entire evening. Fellow who took his girl says at the end of the show she asked nervously, "Do you think we will have a Civil War?" . . . A Brooklyn legislator has introduced a bill to end the greatest travesty on sportsmanship in history, pro wrestling obviously faked and rehearsed.

Every rule of fair play is violated, with foul punches, kicking, jumping on fallen opponent and even attacking referee routine stuff. Yeah, its bogus with wrestlers seldom hurt, and it's all defended as "entertainment." But is it fun in the American tradition to see rules of sport made a complete mockery? . . . Charlie Coolidge, new assistant to Secretary McElroy, was a Harvard football star back in Brickley era. But he may find Washington rougher. . . . A horse called "Picnicking" is running at Hialeah. Should be good on the grass. . . . Add similes: Busier than Bulganin's stenographer. Every day in the Kremlin must be opened with "Take a letter."

Poll of 100 housewives showed they would prefer a second bathroom in home to a second auto. It must have been a stuffed ballot box. We tried it on a dozen wives yesterday. "Don't be silly," they replied, "Who wants to try to drive to a bridge party in a new bath room?" . . . Those $100 a plate political dinners probably don't include the shrimp cocktail. Can a man in any party pay that much for one meal and still remain a dedicated worker for party success? . . . Ike pleads for nonpartisanship in election campaigns. We are against this idea. In a non-partisan campaign too many people get injured.

The Pennsylvania Story

Women In Politics

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg—Pennsylvania's distasteful side will have an ear to wiggle in this year's election for a y although overshadowed by the moment by the gubernatorial candidate ruckus. Although it may not seem to be the case both Democratic and Republican strategists actually have the pots-and-pan department fairly well up there on their respective agendas.

It is now a fairly well recognized axiom that in the planning of contemporary political hink the women can no longer be left on the sidelines simply tying their apron strings and cheering spiritedly. It is true that many an old pol dihard cringes at the very thought, but alas the turn of events in recent years in the Keystone State has rather painfully hammered home the fact that the female ballot scratch is just as important as those of the male variety.

The two major political parties in the Commonwealth each have an active "federation", or female adjunct to the regular party organization. With each passing year these auxiliaries have become more and more an influencing factor.

Candidates, would-be candidates and top office-holders vie for speaker spots on the programs when the lasses hold their annual convalesces.

Each maintains a state headquarters and notwithstanding their brooms and dustpans, operate pretty much on a businesslike basis.

It has only been within the past decade that the petticoat brigade actually has started to come into its own.

Now that they are here the pipe and cigar puffers have no choice other than to recognize the fact — an indeed humiliating fact to those few remaining old sports and warlords of yesteryear who staunchly adhere to the premise that government and politics is strictly a man's world.

Today women will be found in many a top spot in state government here in Harrisburg. A smattering will be found in the State House of Representatives.

None have yet invaded the male sanctum of the 50-member State Senate — one of the few remaining brass cuspidor strongholds.

It will be recalled that in the 1954 gubernatorial campaign both parties slated a woman for the post of State Secretary of Internal Affairs — Republicans boosting Mrs. Gaynelle Dixon who lost to Democrat Miss Genevieve Blatt, the current Internal Affairs chief.

Miss Blatt long has been one of the prime movers in Democratic women's affairs in Pennsylvania, and it might be said that there were few Republicans as well as Democrats, who actually begrudged her long-sought success in 1954.

It marked the first time a woman had won office on a statewide ticket. It was another step forward for the high heels brigade.

This year the women will not be forgotten in either the candidate role or the strategy role.

Chances are good for example that Miss Blatt will wind up as a candidate for lieutenant-governor, or if not this, a return bid for her current Internal Affairs post. Republicans are mulling over a similar proposition.

No matter in what light viewed, the women will have their oar in the boat firmly this year.

Good Evening Ladies!
Expanding Her Outlook
By Ken Duval
It just might be, writes a lady from Dallas, that if men would listen to women, instead of criticizing them for talking so much, they'd learn something. One thing that I, for example, might learn is that women today are well informed on practically all current topics and are capable of speaking intelligently on any subject I might suggest.

This lady has some pretty cutting things to say about my built-in hearing aid, which I am able to turn off at will, especially when a woman is talking to me, and enables me to get in some of my best thinking during such a conversation.

So, I was happy to put this theory to the test and just the other evening I encountered a lady of my acquaintance who is devoted to what she calls expanding her outlook, which she does in conjunction with the expansion of other areas of her anatomy. In an effort to learn something, I asked her some leading questions, which I never would do except when engaged in research.

"Do you think," I asked, against my better judgement, that we are getting anywhere in our relations with Russia?"
"I'm glad you asked that," she said, and I knew she was. "No, I don't think we're any farther together than we were when we were apart. Am I right or wrong?" I praised her logic and told her that, if we were no farther together than we were when we were apart, the outlook was gloomy, indeed.

Chest Leader Appreciative

Mr. Jack Hill, Editor, The Daily Record.

Dear Jack:

Please accept my personal thanks and appreciation as well as that of the entire Monroe County Community Chest for the very excellent assistance The Daily Record gave us in the 1958 drive which is finally successfully concluded.

At our original conference in September with your Mr. Horce G. Heller and Leonard Randolph along with Miss Ethel West, we recognized we had a big job on our hands, but at that time we had not counted on the Asiatic Flu epidemic which did cause us quite some trouble right in the middle of everything. The result was that everyone — workers as well as leaders — was called up to work much harder and longer. That they did so with such fine results is a tribute to them and to all those who supported the drive.

Under the direction of your fine organization and that of WVPO, our story was told effectively and the people of Monroe County can continue to expect the same fine job from the 12 member agencies that they have received in the past.

Behind The Scenes

In Hollywood by Harrison Carroll

Hollywood — If the weather is cold when she opens in Florida, Marie McDonald won't care.

The blond star said she will be sporting a new, full-length chinchilla coat.

"I already had a chinchilla beret, ascot and muff," she declared, "but this coat is a real dream."

Marie, who has been in the Cedars of Lebanon hospital suffering from plebitis, assures me that she will open in February as scheduled at the Elden Roc hotel in Florida and that she is booked for an April 17 appearance here at the Coconut Grove.

With four servants and three dogs as well as herself and the baby to house, John Wayne's wife, Pilar, decided to rent a furnished home until the fire-damaged Wayne manse in the valley can be repaired.

"The work won't even start," she says, "until Duke (Wayne's family and friends all call him Duke) finishes 'The Barbarian' and comes back from the Orient. Our house was an old one. Since we have to rebuild, we'll probably want to make some changes."

According to Pilar, the fire loss probably will run to $200,000.

On the "Me and the Colonel" set, French actress Nicole

Maurey revealed she already has filed a suit in France to divorce her actor husband, Jacques Gallo. It will be final about a year from now. She says Gallo plans to stay in Hollywood and to become an American citizen.

An insurance salesman who had a run of miserable luck finally persuaded a secretary to summon her boss to the phone. "I don't suppose you're in the market for more life insurance?" began the salesman. "Why, yes," replied the prospect. "How large a policy would you suggest?"

"Excuse me, sir," stammered the salesman. "I must have the w-w-wrong number!"

Guest Of Honor Turns To Saw

by Jim Riley

Bill Crooks Jr., well known resident of 1623 N. 5th St., Stroudsburg, was guest of honor at a stag party held at the Thomas P. L. A. members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Home on Saturday night.

This scribe was invited, but was unable to attend. What I missed, is what we'll relate in part today.

Bill, one of the friendliest guys to ever bat the breeze over a cup of coffee, may have been the guest of honor at the shin-dig, but he was also the goat.

Upon arrival Crooks was bedecked with a 60-pound ball and chain. It was securely clamped on his leg.

Bill figured that the joke would run for about an hour and then the ball and chain would be removed.

Keys were provided from time to time during the fun session, but not one of them would fit.

Even when Bill made his famous acceptance speech after receiving luggage as a gift, the joke didn't end.

As it turned out, Bill wound up at a Stroudsburg gas station to have the ball and chain sawed off.

The man with the real key departed from the party at an early hour.

Bill and Pauline Davis will be married in Easton Saturday and the honeymoon will be built around a trip to Bermuda.

I understand Bill also received Bermuda shorts as a present.

Bill, they tell me you're the greatest in the business at delivering acceptance speeches.

Seriously though, buddy, best of luck and may you enjoy happiness in abundance through your life. It couldn't happen to a nicer guy.

George Graff, that man about town, received a special treat on Monday night when the Tulsa University Choir sang "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" as George entered Elgig's Restaurant, Stroudsburg, for dinner. The choir also ate there.

George was well pleased, but both Tom Waring and Harvey Blair inform me that George, author of the song, forwarded the music to Tulsa University so that the choir would be certain to know all the words.

Once again on a serious note — George, a true authority in the music world, termed Monday's visit of the famed choir the very best it has ever had in Monroe County. He said the program was fantastic.

The Varsity "E" Club and East Stroudsburg Band Mothers shared in the profits.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

Push-button living atrophies many of the skills you once had. A woman who has learned to depend on thermostatic control of a frying pan will burn the eggs in a regular skillet. Even our champion cake bakers, accustomed to ovens with regulated heat, would have a hard time on the old coal-fired ranges.

Can you imagine ironing ruffles with those irons that used to stand on the coal stove and had handles that came off? Or fixing their hair with the curling tongs that you heated in the coals? Or boiling clothes to get them white?

But it's humiliating to those of us who remember the days of the hand-cranked cars to realize what push-button driving has done to our driving skill. All right, you try to drive one of those small sports cars that are delight of the young at heart!

After all, they do have a self-starter. I don't remember actually cranking a car, but I do remember "advancing the spark" for someone who did. I remember that when a car could "make Howe's Hill in high" it was really something.

Therefore, it should follow that I would remember to depress the clutch at red lights, change gears with changing speeds, and at least remember how to get it in reverse. It should, but it didn't.

I found myself holding up honking lines of cars at every light, going around dozens of blocks to get headed the other way, and enlisting the help of every crew-cut along the way.

For the general welfare, I hope nothing happens to push button living. I'd hate to try my skill in other departments like fire-bulldozing, furnace-banking, priming the pump, emptying the Saturday night kitchen bathtub—or filling it either for that matter.

Because I'm quite certain the family would be frozen, scalded, scorched, not to mention mighty dirty and hungry if I had to.

Job Hunters Should Give Interviewer Time For Role

By Anne Heywood

Success in human relationships, it seems to me, is a matter of give and take. There has to be an opportunity for both parties to make an active contribution.

You know how children hate a party where all the entertainment is supplied by paid entertainers—and how they love the parties at which they themselves participate in the fun.

Well, the same is true of employers.

If you are on a job-hunting interview, remember that the employer likes to participate, too!

Canned Speech
Too many of us arrive with a canned speech, a routine that is so complete the employer can't get a word in edgewise. All that is left for him to say is: "Yes, I'll hire you" or "No, I won't hire you." And you know which he's most apt to say!

Be sure to be quiet enough and to listen enough so that he can tell you a little about the job. And what is more subtle but equally important, let him do some reading between the lines, let him come to some conclusions himself. Or, as they say in advertising circles, don't tell him—show him.

Youthful Approach
For example, you want to indicate that even though you're over forty, you are still open-minded, flexible and youthful. Don't say so—he'll never believe it.

Instead, say, "I'm perfectly willing to travel" or "I've no objection to irregular hours" or "I'm willing to come in on a trial basis."

All of those statements indicate that you have an open-minded, flexible and young approach.

Don't say, "Oh yes, I know I can work in a large organization without getting lost in the crowd." He'll expect you to say you can, if being able to is part of the job.

For the first time in several years the death rate among life insurance policy-holders in the United States showed an increase in 1957. The increase is credited to the epidemic of Asiatic Flu, which resulted in a rise in heart disease deaths.

Instead, take some time in your life when you did just that, and mention it.

Large Groups

For example, I worked in a club of 800 members and held my own nicely—I went to the State University and worked on a school paper.

A brilliant writer I know once said: "Don't say that the mean man took the most comfortable chair in the room. Instead, say, 'I pushed the sleeping cat off the chair and sat in it.'"

"The reader will draw his own conclusion that the man was mean and the chair was a comfortable one."

Good Manners
Finally, don't say, "I get along well with people." Everybody says that. Just let your manners be so good, and your behavior so considerate, that the employer will draw that conclusion himself. Remember, it's the conclusions he draws that influence him—not the things you say!

If you have trouble in job-hunting interviews, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope, care of this newspaper, and I'll send my pamphlet, "Good Manners in Job Hunting."

League Of Women Voters' Stand On Security-Liberty Explained At Meeting

The official position of the League of Women Voters on the means of solving the twin problems of safeguarding the security of this country and at the same time the individual liberties of its citizens was explained to the local Provisional League at an open meeting on Monday night at the YMCA.

A national press release on January 17, setting for the League's conviction that individual liberties and free examination of facts were basic ingredients of democracy, was the starting point for the explanation, presented by Mrs. John Kenderline, first vice president of the Pennsylvania League.

She sketched in the historical background of the security and loyalty program which grew out of the disillusionment and fear of the late 1940's with the first Federal Loyalty Act in 1947. It was a crash program hastily drawn up under pressure. It was improved in 1950 and amended by the President but still had no direction or coherency, she said. That was the reason why the League of Women Voters devoted 1954 to a study of the development of individual liberties and democratic processes through a study of the Constitution and Bill of Rights. That study led to an evaluation of the Loyalty-Security programs, and after reports from local and state leagues to a declaration of the official position of the League.

That position she explained under five headings: 1. The present programs should be modified, since they represent a threat to the due process of law. That "due process" must include a hearing before condemning. The programs also tie up the Civil Service administration to negative work and are costly both to the government and to the individual. 2. The Security Program should be limited to those government employees in sensitive position with access to secret or top secret material. 3. A common sense standard should be adopted. 4. The Attorney General's list of subversive organization should be kept up to date, and restudied at constant intervals. 5. Any procedure should guarantee the right to subpoena witnesses, the right of council, the right to confront the accuser (exception was made to FBI employees whose usefulness might be impaired by revealing their identity), the right to know the charges, and the right of appeal. As the program stands now, she said, present or prospective Government employees have less safeguards than are guaranteed in trials of foreign spies.

She also spoke in favor of freeing scientific information for more efficient scientific advancements, and advocated that matters of security be judged by the Civil Service and questions of loyalty to a separate agency.

"The slightest disregard of individual liberties," she warned, "can erode the whole structure of democracy."

Her talk was followed by a discussion period, in which she stressed that while the official state position of the League represented the consensus of league members, it did not necessarily represent the viewpoint of individual members who were free to form their own opinions.

Patrons Names Due For College Choir Concert

The appearance of the 60-voice Gettysburg College Choir is being sponsored by the Missionary Society of the Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church at 4:30 Sunday afternoon. The expenses of the concert are being met by friends and members whose names will appear on a printed Patron List at the concert.

Those who have received letters concerning this patronage are reminded that their names should be in the hands of the Committee not later than Friday, January 31 in order to be included.

The choir members will be feted to dinner following the concert in a Stroudsburg restaurant, and then members and friends of the congregation will provide overnight accommodations and breakfast before the group leaves for Kingston, N. Y., and the completion of their 10-day concert tour.

Five Birthdays Celebrated At Stettler's

Five birthdays were celebrated on Sunday, January 26, at the home of Joseph Stettler Jr., 436 Normal St., East Stroudsburg. The guests of honor, all of whom had or will have birthdays soon, included Joseph Stettler Sr., Robert Stettler, William Stettler, Maurice Stout and Richard Stout.

Others present were Mrs. Joseph Stettler Sr., Mrs. Maurice Stout, Peggy Judy, Joan and Kathy Stout, Mr. and Mrs. John Bensley and Ann, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stettler Jr. and daughter Lynne.

A turkey dinner was followed by a four-tier party cake and homemade ice cream. Gifts were presented to the guests of honor.

Marriage License

A marriage license was applied for yesterday from N. Henry Fenner, clerk of orphan's court, by William P. Serfass, 22, and Anne Frances Meredith, 18, both of Stroudsburg.

George Washington was born Feb. 22, 1732, in Wikefield, Va.

Improvement Necessary In Homes

THE average American home is using four times the amount of electricity it did 25 years ago and three times as much as it did 14 years ago. Yet eight out of 10 homes in America were wired long before this greatly increased demand occurred.

The home electric system that was originally designed for operating a dozen 60 watt bulbs, is now being called upon to provide electric power for a multiplicity of appliances, some of which, alone, may well take the entire load of incoming electric power. In addition to old wiring problems many owners of relatively new homes are discovering that their electric systems are almost as obsolete as those in antiquated houses.

To understand what has happened to the average electric system, it is necessary to know a little bit about how it works. Home wiring systems are in two parts. The first is the service entrance which brings electricity from company power lines to your house. The second distributes that electric power throughout your home.

The service entrance consists of the wires coming from the power lines to your house, the meter, the switch and fuse box. The amount of electricity which can be brought into your home at any one time is determined by the capacity of the service entrance wires and equipment.

The second part of your electric system which distributes electricity from the service entrance throughout your home is composed of branch circuits and outlets. The number of branch circuits and the size of the wires in the circuits determine how efficiently electricity can operate your lights and appliances. If your system doesn't have enough branch circuits of proper size wires to accommodate all of your electric equipment it becomes overloaded.

Financing Easier For Remodeling

MANY FAMILIES contemplating remodeling projects to make their homes more comfortable and up-to-date needlessly delay their improvements because of limited funds. Actually, it has become increasingly easy in recent months for the homeowner to obtain financing for home improvement purposes.

Keep in mind that remodeling is an investment. If your home is structurally sound, and if the alterations or additions you plan are well-conceived and properly executed, the remodeling will add substantially more to the value of the home than the dollars you spend.

Financial institutions have come more and more to recognize this fundamental truth, and as a result offer several major methods for obtaining repair-model financing. The amount of money you require is the first item to consider in determining the financing method which best suits your needs.

Here, as summarized by Home Improvement Council, are the most important methods of obtaining large sums of home improvement money:

New mortgage financing—means exactly what the term indicates, a new mortgage on a "paid-up" home. The owner of such a property can often borrow up to 50 per cent or more of its appraised value.

Refinancing—if the owner has a substantial equity in his home, he can refinance, a procedure whereby he acquires a new mortgage loan of an amount large enough to pay off the existing mortgage and to finance a modernizing project as well.

Open-End Mortgage—a fairly recent development in the mortgage lending business which makes refinancing procedures unnecessary for many thousands of families, even where major remodeling projects are involved. Stated simply, the open-end mortgage contains a clause under which the lender can make additional advances of money for modernizing up to the amount of the original loan. If you are not sure whether your mortgage contains this clause, consult your lender, who may write in such a clause if his institution has adopted open-end mortgages as standard procedure since the original mortgage was written.

Smaller home modernizing projects, requiring expenditures of less than $3,500, can usually be financed without a mortgage involved in the transaction. Here are some of those methods:

Title I loan—in which a local lender advances the money required and the Federal Housing Administration insures repayment. Loans are issued for a maximum of five years and $3,500. Five per cent discount interest (deducted from the amount of the loan at the time the money is borrowed) is charged on the first $2,500 and four per cent on any portion of the next $1,000.

Individual loan plans of banks and other lending institutions—comparable in all respects to Title I loans.

Usually, with both Title I loans and individual loan plans, it is possible for the contractor or dealer with whom the homeowner is dealing to secure the loan after the homeowner fills out a simple credit application form.

Tri-Level Plan Offers Comfort

IN THIS interesting tri-level plan each section of the home while easily accessible by a short run of stairs is separate from the other parts. Additional comfort and maximum efficiency result from such an arrangement.

The main level contains living and dining quarters combined but there's a twist here. Instead of facing the front of the home, living room turns its back to street noise and faces the rear outdoor terrace and yard. A large natural fireplace enhances living area and there are windows on two sides.

Dining is logically near kitchen area and an attractive built-in china cabinet and what-not shelves are located almost to the center of this room. Because of its location, the what-not shelf acts as a wall, making the dining room private from front entry.

Kitchen
The efficient kitchen with "L" cabinet arrangement allows all the walk-around space you'll ever want. It is placed to the front of the home with large windows overlooking the front yard. Note the handy snack bar and excellent countertops.

The kitchen service door is another convenience for the homeowner. Notice, too, that if she wishes to go down to the laundry area, the lower level stairs are just a few steps from the kitchen. The upper level, a few steps up, includes three large bedrooms each boasting double closets and cross ventilation, good sized bath, large linen cabinet, and extra hall closet. Truly an ideal arrangement for privacy and convenience.

With access to rear yard from the laundry and to the garage from the central hall, the lower level shares the desired combination of efficiency and convenience. Ample room in heat and laundry room for washer, dryer, ironer, sorting counter and cabinet is featured. A complete bath with shower, a linen cabinet and the fruit and grocery storage room are grouped in the hall convenient for main and lower level use.

Modern Design
This exceptional modern design can be built on level ground or hillside. Many combinations of materials may be used for the exterior treatment. A good combination would be ledge rock and horizontal wood siding for a pleasing and harmonious effect. This plan conforms to general FHA, VA and Building Code requirements. Electrical layout is indicated on the blue prints. Due to the variation in material and labor costs, the estimated construction cost is not given. However, this plan contains 1,271 square feet, 20,948 cubic feet and 362 square feet for the garage. Your builder or material supplier can give you the average cost per square or cubic foot in your area. For further details use handy order form on this page.

Wrought Iron Adds Beauty To Modern Lines Of Home

MANY homeowners appreciate the grace and richness of wrought iron railings and columns and recognize how much they can do to enhance the appearance and value of the home but hesitate to include them in improvement or new construction plans because of the feeling that they are too expensive.

Modern methods, however, have greatly reduced the costs involved in the fabrication of wrought iron. In fact, cost of wrought railings and columns is often less than that of masonry and wood where good design and construction practice is followed.

Good wrought iron is practically indestructible and, with a minimum of maintenance such as occasional painting at intervals dictated by climatic conditions, it will last indefinitely.

Ornamental iron work finds many uses, both inside and outside, on old and new structures. Wrought iron railings may be used on both exterior and interior staircases and balconies, around porches, stoops, landing and platforms, "airing porches", swimming pools, etc., wherever an added touch of beauty is desired or danger of fall exists.

Wrought iron columns, like railings, are gaining increasing popularity in interior decorative and structural applications such as balcony supports, room dividers, etc.

Avoid Shaking
TAKE care never to shake or stir clear glossy varnish. Agitation only whips small air bubbles into the varnish. These are extremely difficult to brush out and will prevent a truly smooth finish.

Trays For Nuts
PLASTIC ICE cube trays are just the thing for storing nuts, bolts, tacks and other small hardware. They serve well as temporary storage of tiny parts when you're working on intricate models.

Family Figures In Home Repairs

HOME IMPROVEMENT—the very words convey a warm feeling of greater comfort, more convenience, better living conditions for the entire family. Home improvement, like the home, itself, is a family proposition, one deeply rewarding to all concerned.

Whether you're undertaking your repair-remodel project to save money by correcting faults before they become real problems, to make present quarters less crowded or to enhance the general appearance of your property, you'll complete it with a feeling of pride... a feeling of accomplishment.

The first tool which should come into use in any remodeling project is the pencil. Careful planning with pencil and paper avoids costly mistakes and time-consuming delays.

Priority Ratings
With each member of the family voicing his opinions, give your projects priority ratings—starting with the one that brings the greatest benefits in increased comfort and efficiency to the family. Once you have decided which is the most important project and, consequently, the one to be carried out first, follow the planning through to the finish with this step-by-step procedure:

1. Talk your proposals over with your local repair-remodel-replace businessmen. Any of these professionals, if your project involves his specialty, is likely to save you more than he charges by helping you avoid errors and making sure you use the proper, most up-to-date materials.

2. Find out how local building codes and zoning regulations affect your plans. If you use a contractor or architect, he'll find out if he doesn't already know. If you're doing the job yourself, be sure to get a building permit if one is required.

3. Pick the materials and equipment that will best serve your needs. This will involve "shopping around"—through newspapers, magazines, manufacturers' literature and at retail stores if you're not relying on experts. And if you are doing the work yourself, make sure it is possible for an amateur to install or apply the things you buy.

Estimates of Cost
4. Get cost estimates and check into financing possibilities—the two-fold step that will finally determine just how far you can go at the present time.

5. Apportion the jobs and schedule the workmen. Your architect or contractor, if you have one, will take care of this step. If not, it will be up to you to schedule the types of workmen needed in addition to the work you plan to do yourself.

6. Schedule the materials. Make sure your purchases arrive before the workmen who are to use them. Otherwise, you will find yourself paying for time wasted.

7. Arrange to be on hand yourself whenever your labor or supervision is required.

Improvement Gives Lift To Pride

FEW other home improvements can give such a lift to the family's pride of possession, and at the same time so substantially enhance the resale value of the property as new siding. At relatively small cost, the exterior of the house can be given a completely "new look" with any one of the many siding materials now available.

Most common material for resurfacing is, of course, wood. Redwood, cedar, Douglas fir and white pine come in a variety of siding types, the most popular of which is bevel or lap siding, applied horizontally with the lower edge thicker than the upper.

Drop Siding
Drop siding which has a groove cut along one edge is also applied horizontally and lapped.

Board and batten siding (wide boards with narrow battens covering the joints) is especially adapted to vertical applications. In sheltered areas, tongue-and-groove paneling is an excellent choice.

Cedar shakes and shingles not only make an attractive exterior wall, but have an added advantage in their insulating value. The cedar shingle single-course exterior has proven popular where economy is an important factor. If a double-coursed wall is preferred, the more economical cedar shingle undercoursing is laid first. Directly over this are laid the grooved or striated cedar shakes. This results in a rich, deep shadow line that accents the home's horizontal lines.

Fireproof Siding
Asbestos-cement siding shingles are very hard and fireproof; colors are impregnated into the material.

Hardboard, made of heat and pressure-treated wood fibers, is available in wide panel horizontal lap siding and vertically scored siding. The latter is applied in large sheets.

Aluminum siding comes in long lengths which are applied as horizontal lap siding.

Insulating siding consists of fiber panels and shingles with facing of asphalt and mineral granules and affords a thrifty approach to re-surfacing.

Plywood siding comes in large panels and in a variety of patterns.

Monroe County Births, Deaths During First Nine Months Of 1957 Decrease From 1956

(Record Harrisburg Bureau)
HARRISBURG, Jan. 28 (AP)—Both births and deaths in Monroe County during the first nine months of 1957 were down from a year ago. The Record learned today from the State Department of Health.

Live births in the county during the nine-month period stood at 548 as compared with 572 at the same time in 1956. On the other hand the number of deaths within the county dropped from 319 last year to 311.

Interestingly, the birth rate for the county stood at 20.3 per 1000 population (21.2 a year ago) while the statewide average rounded out to 22. The death rate in the county during the period at 11.5 (11.8 in 1956) compares with the average for all counties of 10. As to causes of death, heart disease once again proved to be the biggest toll-taker in the county accounting for 130 deaths during the period as compared with 140 last year at the same time.

Other top causes of death in the county, excluding accidents and mechanical causes: cancer, 48 (59 in 1956); cerebral hemorrhage, 40 (35); arterio-sclerosis, nine (10); diabetes, eight (five); and pneumonia and influenza, four (four).

Tuberculosis was blamed for three deaths as compared with two during the same period last year.

OFF THE RECORD
By Bob Clark
Sports Editor

BASEBALL IS JUST around the corner, and, as such, the tub thumpers of the American and National Leagues are pounding out information to ignite the fans for the coming pennant chase. The junior circuit's (American) Earl Hilligan dug into the record books and found some interesting facts on two hurlers who made the league setup and took notice during a nine-year stint together with the Cleveland Indians.

Herewith in Hilligan's findings and some shorts of interest: One of the finest "pitching pairs" in American League history—Bob Lemon and Early Wynn—find themselves in enemy camps for the 1958 season after nine seasons of mound brilliance for the same club. The junior circuit has seen many great hurling "pairs"—Hal Newhouser and Dizzy Trout, Lefty Gomez and Charley Ruffing, Lynn Rowe and Tommy Bridges—but for length of service with the same club the Wynn-Lemon performance was outstanding. In those nine seasons in which they toiled for the Indians, 1949-1957, the two ace right-handers won an amazing total of 335 American League victories while losing 203.

Lemon, the converted infielder-outfielder, pitched three seasons for Cleveland before Wynn joined him in 1949. Bob had been a 20-game winner for the world championship Indians of 1948, a season when Early won eight but lost 19 for Washington. Wynn started slowly as an Indian in 1949, being 11-7 for the year as Bob turned a brilliant 22-10 record.

Early then checked in with 18 wins and eight losses in 1950 as Lemon was 23-11. Wynn turned the tables with a 20-18 year in 1951 as Bob won 17 while losing 14. In 1952, Wynn was 23-12 to Bob's 22-11. In the following season Early fell off to 17 wins and 12 losses as Bob was 21-15. Both racked up 23-victory seasons in 1954 as the Indians won the pennant. Early losing 11 to Bob's seven. In 1955, Wynn's 17 victories were one less than Bob's win total as Early lost 11 and Bob 10. In 1956 both hit 20 victories on the head, with Wynn losing nine to Lemon's 14.

Last season Lemon, handicapped badly by a sore arm and forced to leave the club in August with elbow chips, won only six while losing 11. And Wynn, carrying the load for the Indian staff, won 14 while losing 17. Early started the most games of any league hurler, 37, worked 263 innings, yet led the league in strikeouts, with 184.

Wynn, acquired by the Chicago White Sox last December, is tops in the American League lifetime win column with 235 victories against 187 defeats in major league career which began in 1939 with Washington. His best season was in 1943, when he won 35.

Lemon, who broke into pro ball in 1938 as an infielder-outfielder, won his first major league game in 1946, a season in which he was 4-5 for the Tribe.

Billy Martin, the peppery infielder obtained by Detroit from Kansas City's Athletics, is an auto salesman in Kansas City during the winter months.

Don (Perfect Game) Larsen, big New York Yankee pitcher, has beaten Kansas City seven times while never losing to the A's in three seasons, yet has failed to defeat Cleveland in five seasons while losing six times to that club.

The Detroit Tigers expect a capacity enrollment of 1355 youngsters at the baseball school they will conduct for two weeks beginning tomorrow at their Tigertown camp at Lakeland, Fla. The school is open to high school graduates in the 18-24 age group. Bill Hitchcock and Willis Hudlin, Tiger coaches, will be supervisors.

Don Lee, Detroit pitcher whose father, Thornton Lee, was a standout southpaw in the American League in the forties, is working on his master's degree at the University of Arizona.

Mountaineers Overcome 10-Point Deficit

STROUDSBURG HIGH wiped out a 10-point deficit in the third period and then steamed to a 68-57 victory over Slatintong High in a Lehigh Valley League first half finale on the Mountaineers floor last night.

Spearheaded offensively by Ted and Tod Williams and Tom Gross, and generated defensively by the ball-hawking of Dick Everitt and Johnny Gilpin, the Mountaineers moved to their second LV victory and eighth win in 15 overall starts.

The triumph enabled the charges of John Kupiec to cement themselves in seventh place and push the Slaters into sole possession of the league cellar.

Ted Williams paced the scorers with 20 markers, but it was sophomore brother Tod who picked up the slack in the third stanza drive and drove the Mountaineers ahead with clutch goals.

Tod ended up with 18 tallies, and Tom Gross, another underclassman, grabbed third laurels for the locals with 15.

Except for a brief spell in the opening period, the Mountaineers were behind the visitors until just before the buzzer, ending the third period.

Trail 51-41. At one point in the third, Stroudsburg trailed 51-41. Here Tod Williams came into his own and joined brother Ted in a spree that knotted it at 51-51.

Ted then stuck in a push shot and Stroudsburg took a two-point lead into the fourth.

The Mountaineers, with Everitt and Gilpin stealing passes and breaking up Slatintong dribbles, shot away to a 63-51 spread as Ted and Gross chalked up the pad points.

Stroudsburg's first half record in the LV reads, 2-5, while Slatintong owns a 1-6 log.

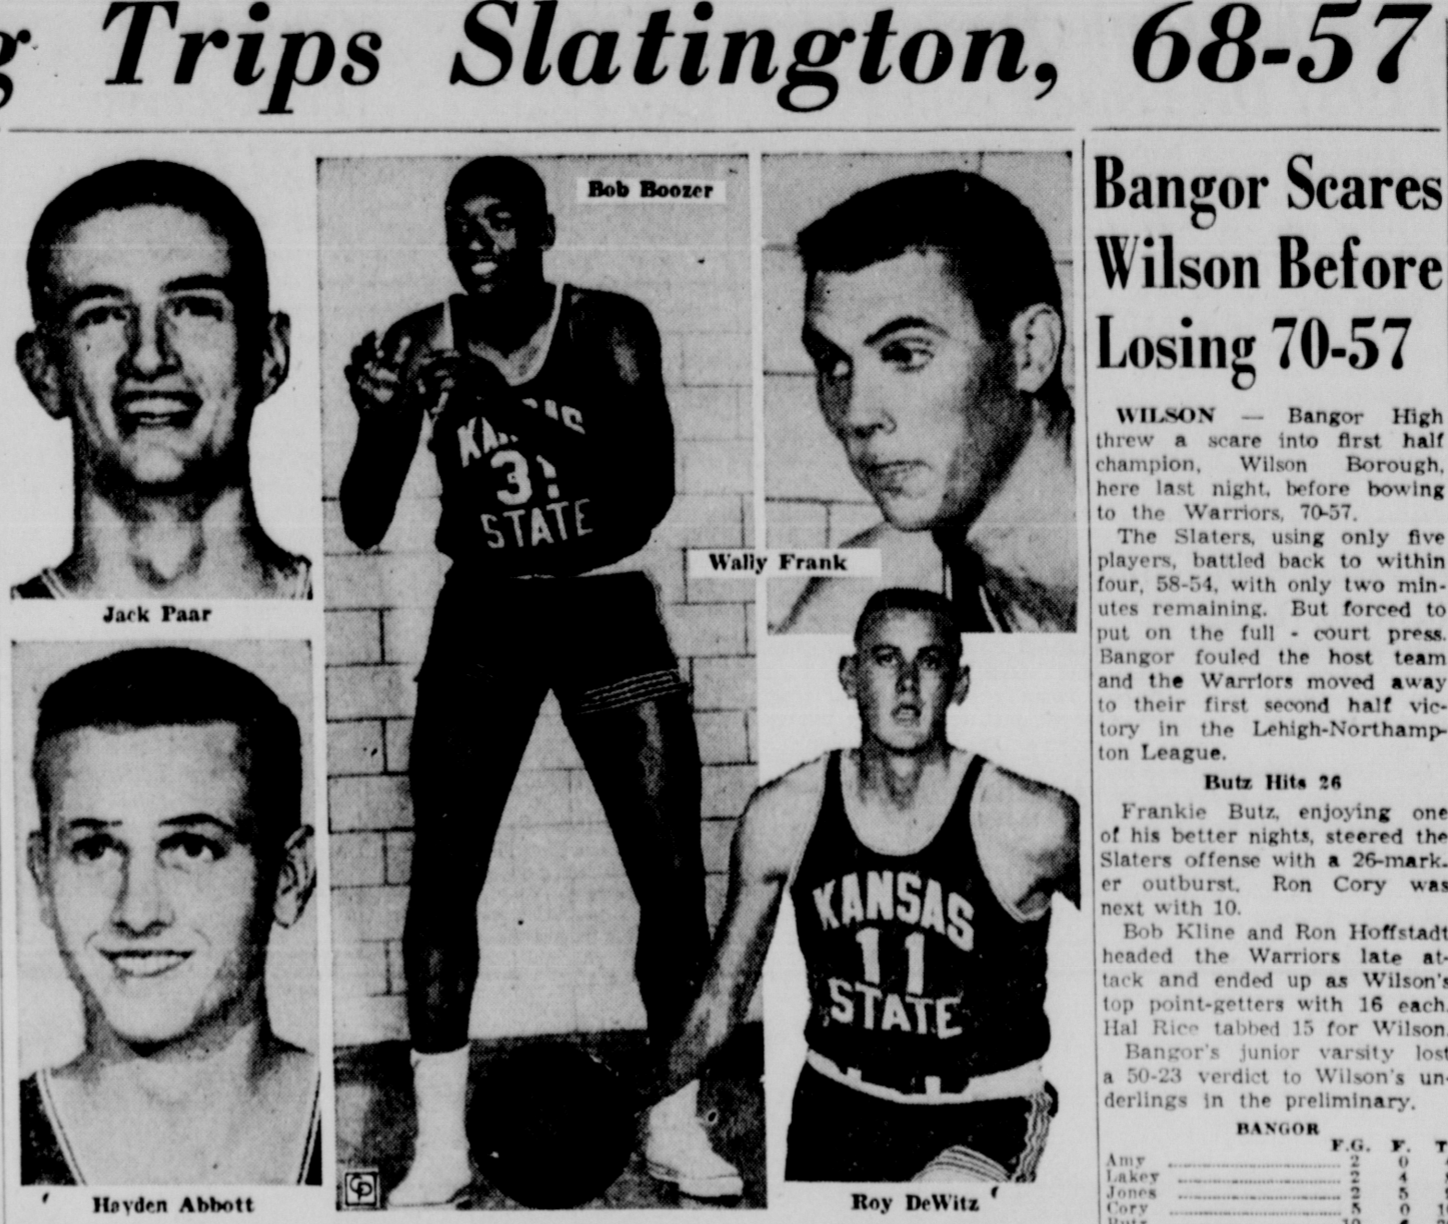

Slatintong's junior varsity won out in the preliminary, besting the Little Mountaineers, 33-24.

Eastburg Junior High Bows To Leighton Quintet, 37-15

LEIGHTON JUNIOR HIGH put together a scoring second half offense and a tight defense to defeat East Stroudsburg Junior High, 37-15, on the losers floor yesterday.

The loss was the second in five games for Mike Evans' Eastburgers. Leighton is 2-2 on the season.

Eastburg matched the visitors point for point in the first two stanzas and left the court at intermission deadlocked at 10-10. However, in the last half, Leighton outscored Eastburg, 27-5, to walk away with the win.

Top Point-Getters: Novatnak, with 10, and Carl and Miller, with eight each, paced the winners. Glen Kene topped East Stroudsburg with nine.

POCONO ARCHERY Association set plans for its shoot in May at a meeting at the Town Tavern, Stroudsburg, last night. Two new members were admitted to the bow-arrow organization, bringing the total membership to 97.

In other business, insurance policies were taken out to protect members and property. It was announced that the building committee will hold a work project Saturday at the West Main St. range.

Lyle To Coach In Canada

EDMONTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—Melvin (Sam) Lyle, 35, for the last four seasons an assistant coach at the University of Oklahoma, has been signed as head coach of the Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Football Conference, it was announced today.

He replaces Frank (Pop) Ivy, who left the Eskimos after four years to become head coach of the Chicago Cardinals of the National Football League.

Stags Tune Up For Moscow, Via 84-50 Win

LAKE ARIEL—Greene-Dreher, Sterling High tuned up for its first place clash with Moscow by romping over Lake Ariel, 84-50, here last night.

The Stags, with Bob Haag, Ron Robacker and Don Olsommer tallying 61 points between them, were never in trouble after taking a 23-13 lead in the opening stanza.

Share Honors: Haag and Robacker shared Stag point honors with 21 points each. Olsommer was close behind with 19. Pete Quijo was the Lakers' lone threat with 21.

Greene-Dreher meets Moscow for first place in the Southern Division of the Wayne Conference Friday. Both ways have identical loop logs of 4-1.

Phillipsburg Tops Eastburg, 85-64

EAST STROUDSBURG HIGH battled Phillipsburg on even terms in the second and third period, but the Stateliners accumulated enough spread in the first and fourth to top the Cavaliers, 85-64, in an independent game on the losers floor last night.

Spearheaded by Jim Kindrew's 29-point effort, the Cavaliers shaved the Garnet's margin to nine points twice in the final period but the visitors had enough scoring punch left to pull away to their commanding lead.

It was the 10th victory in 12 games for Phillipsburg. The setback was Eastburg's 10th in 11 games.

Phillipsburg, with four players hitting in the double figures, moved ahead in the opening quarter, 22-11. The Garnet, despite Cavalier bids, held the 11-point spread at half time and continued 11-markers in the van at the end of the third canto.

8 For 4 Fouls: Dale Metzgar, and Bill (Bones) Hillman were other Cavaliers to make the double figures. Metzgar connected for 13, while Hillman, with 8 for 8 from the foul line, added two buckets for 12.

Bill Lowe and Art Davis were the top scorers for Phillipsburg with 22 and 17. Ralph DePaul and Bill Faerberback tied for third laurels with 11 each.

With three of its regulars moved up to the varsity, East Stroudsburg's undermanned junior varsity dropped a 64-36 decision to the Little Stateliners.

Sugar Bowl Stir Picked By Colts

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 28 (AP)—The Baltimore Colts, already loaded with talented quarterbacks, dipped into the National Football League college player draft bag today and came up with quarterback Ray Brown, 21, hero of Mississippi's Sugar Bowl winner.

Baltimore, armed with the first choice at the selection meeting as the result of a previous deal with the Chicago Cardinals, selected Brown even though the Colts own such fine quarterbacks as John Unitas and George Shaw.

Chestnuthill, Tobyhanna Win

CHESTNUTHILL and Tobyhanna Twp. continued their neck and neck fight for third place in the Monroe Scholastic League last night by recording victories. The Hillers downed Coolbaugh 65-53, while Tobyhanna edged Polk, 54-53.

Barrett and Pocono Twp., the second and first place teams respectively, were idle.

With Dick Serfass leading the way with 19 points, and Barney LaBar and Altomose checking in with 13, 11 and 11, the Hillers maintained or bettered its spread throughout most of the contest.

Coolbaugh was kept in the fray with the four-boy double figure shooting of Dick DeDonno (14), Bob Pope (13), Dave Gower (11) and Bill Beeher (11).

5-5 Record: The win was the fifth in 10 league starts for Chestnuthill. Coolbaugh now owns a 1-9 mark.

Charley Tomkey's 23-point night spurred Coolbaugh's junior varsity to a 54-29 victory over the Little Hillers. Jimmy Fritz was high for the losers with 12.

Just Miss Out: KRESGEVILLE—Polk Township battled Tobyhanna down to the wire before dropping a 54-53 decision to the Pocono Lake five in a nip and tuck MSL thriller here last night.

Tobyhanna bounced to a 17-12 lead in the opening canto but fell before a Polk outburst in the second to trail 27-26 at half-time. Tobyhanna knotted it at 40-40 at the end of the third and staved off a final Polk rally to mark up its fifth win in 10 games.

Keiper High: Harvey Keiper led Tobyhanna with 21 points, trailed by Altomose's 18. Kresge and Roman-cavage spearheaded the losers with 17 and 15.

The loss was Polk's ninth in 10 games.

Tobyhanna's junior varsity had little trouble defeating Polk's JV's in the preliminary, 69-31. Franks' 10 paced the victors, while L. Borger's five was high for Polk.

British Boxers Capture Bouts

LONDON, Jan. 28 (AP)—Floored by a punch after the eighth round had ended, British lightweight champion Dave Charnley, 22, rallied strongly in the last two rounds to win a close decision in 10 rounds over Don Jordan of Los Angeles.

In the co-feature, Britain's Peter Waterman, 146, dethroned Italy's Emilio Marconi, 145, as European welterweight champion, on a technical knockout at the finish of the 14th round of the 15-round title fight.

Dutch Referee Cornelius Knol stopped the bout in the rest period between the 14th and 15th because of a cut over Marconi's left eye. Marconi had floored Waterman twice in the 11th round and appeared to be ahead.

Broken Neck Seen Ending Cappy Career

By WHITNEY MARTIN

GLEN COVE, N.Y., Jan. 28 (AP)—Roy Campanella's brilliant career as one of baseball's greatest catchers appeared at an end today. An auto accident broke his neck and left him temporarily paralyzed.

A seven-man team of surgeons worked over the Negro star of the Dodgers for four hours and 20 minutes in an attempt to repair the damage to his husky frame and relieve paralysis from the chest down.

Afterward, Dr. Robert W. Sengstaken, head of the surgical team, termed the operation a success and said the paralysis is expected to disappear. But it may be six weeks before Campanella is up and around.

Just Missed Death

Dr. Sengstaken, who said the injury came within an inch of killing the player, did not rule out the possibility that Campanella might play baseball again. But the future, nevertheless, was bleak for the heaviest hitting catcher in the history of the sport.

At 36, Campanella already was considered by some observers to be over the hill — because of age and because of hand injuries that are a constant menace to a catcher's career. Thence the National League's most valuable player, Campanella had one of his poorer seasons last year.

Campanella's car skidded on wet pavement as he went into a dangerous "S" curve about half a mile from his home early today. He was driving back the 30 miles from New York to his North Shore Long Island home after a television appearance.

The car flipped over and crashed into a telephone pole. Rescuers had to use crowbars to get to Campanella.

The Dodgers — recently transferred from Brooklyn to Los Angeles — tried to take an optimistic official outlook. In Darlington, Ohio, manager Walter Alston said: "Knowing him as I do, he'll be back as soon as he can, if at all possible. He's a very rugged type individual."

Other catchers are on the Dodger roster and ready to take over. But as Dodger Vice President Buzz Bavasi put it: "You just don't replace a fellow like Campanella."

Campanella was the league's most valuable player in 1951, 1953, and 1955. In the latter year, the Dodgers won their first World Series.

In 1953, Campanella hit 41 home runs, most ever recorded by a catcher. The same year his 142 runs batted in also set a record for catchers.

He was seven times a member of the National League all-star team in the annual mid-season game.

Campanella also was the highest paid player in Dodger history in 1956 when he signed a $42,500 contract. His 1958 contract, signed last November, called for $36,500. He batted only .242 last year and hit but 13 homers.

The 215-pound Campanella, a native of Philadelphia, was due to report March 1 for spring training with the Dodgers at Vero Beach, Fla. He also was engaged in plans to move to Los Angeles, which the Dodgers will represent for the first time this year.

Six Children

Married and with six children ranging in age from 4 to 16, Campanella owns a prosperous Harlem liquor store. He has a $38,000 yacht which he was trying to sell before leaving New York.

As a veteran of more than 10 years in baseball, Campanella is eligible for a $75 monthly pension when he reaches the age of 50. If permanently injured, he gets $250 a month for life under baseball's pension plan, starting six months from today.

Campanella joined the Dodgers in 1948, as the third Negro on a team that already included Jackie Robinson and Don Newcombe.

His lifetime batting average of .276 does not in itself indicate the value to his team of 242 home runs and 763 runs batted in during his Dodger career.

Campanella was plagued by injuries, beginning with a dislocated right thumb in 1950. His hands were injured often. He had two operations on his left hand to remove bone chips and calcium deposits. The left was in 1956 and since then he has complained he could not properly grip a bat.

ESSTC's German Leading Average Scorer In PTBC

JOHNSTOWN, Pa.—At the halfway mark, Jim Gustave of Bloomsburg leads the scorers of the 14-team Pennsylvania State Teachers Colleges Basketball Conference with 101 points—one point better than scored by Joe Delise, of Indiana.

Charles German, of East Stroudsburg, is the high average scorer with 28½ points in two conference games with Roger Hotz, of California, close behind with 27½ points in two games. Tom Allen, of Cheyney, has an average of 26½ points in two games, scoring 36 points against East Stroudsburg for the season's single-game high. In the same game German scored 33 points with record 19 free throws for second season's high.

After a week's layoff because of mid-term examinations, the STC conference play resumes this week with nine games. Leading scorers:

WVU Loss Came After Balloting

By The Associated Press

WEST VIRGINIA'S basketball team, beaten for the first time this season just after being ranked No. 1 in the nation for the sixth straight week, gets an extra chance to put the pressure on its rivals before the next ballot is taken.

West Virginia took the top rating in the weekly Associated Press College Basketball Poll, based on games through last Saturday, based on games through last Saturday, by a wide margin over Kansas. The votes of sports writers and broadcasters were counted Monday and a few hours later Duke knocked the Mountaineers out of their unbeaten status by a 72-68 score.

Grain Future Prices Crumble

CHICAGO, Jan. 28 (AP)—After running up good gains for most of the day, grain futures prices crumbled in the final minutes on the Board of Trade today and about half the contracts finished lower.

At the close, wheat was  $\frac{1}{8}$  lower to  $\frac{1}{4}$  higher, corn was  $\frac{1}{4}$  lower to  $\frac{1}{8}$  higher, oats  $\frac{1}{4}$  higher, rye  $\frac{1}{4}$  lower to  $\frac{1}{8}$  higher, soybeans  $\frac{1}{4}$  lower, and lard 5 cents higher.

Summit Talk Plans Sound Like Menu

By William L. Ryan

IF NIKITA Khrushchev has his way, the United States will wind up with a mighty international bellyache.

Summit talks, suggests the Soviet Communist boss, should be like a Russian meal.

"Let's start with the appetizers and proceed with soup and fish, and end up with the main course," says Khrushchev. In this way, he adds, the two sides might agree on lesser things and get to the bigger ones later.

This sounds intriguing. How about a menu like this:

Hors d'Oeuvres: Billed adages on toast, assorted maxims, mixed sweet and sour promises.

Soup: Cream of tripe, diplomatic.

Slippery Eels

Fish: Slippery eels, served with adish of tossed green plattitudes.

Main Course: Outlet of minced oaths, assorted hot potatoes, mixed strained relations.

The trouble with this proposed international tensions dinner is that Khrushchev is noted for his big appetite. When Khrushchev says he and the Soviet Communists now have everything they want and want no more, one gets the uneasy feeling of having heard that before from somebody else.

Isn't there an echo of Hitler in Khrushchev's assurance that his appetite has been appeased? The Western world, at any rate, might remember with a slight shudder that Hitler proclaimed his hunger sated Munich in 1938, where a gruesome sort of banquet at the summit was being held.

What are the "little things" Khrushchev says Moscow and the West can agree upon first? He hasn't mentioned any specifically. Perhaps, for the first course, Moscow and the West might agree that the earth is round and a straight line is the shortest distance between two points.

Agreement

From there the two sides might go on to agreement that vodka is good for snakebite. It is notable that the two sides already have come to agreement on the premise that culture is a commendable thing.

The Kremlin and the United States could agree too, perhaps, that one can catch more flies with honey than with vinegar. Khrushchev has been demonstrating that all along. The trouble is, though, that under his honey Khrushchev has been hiding a considerable amount of flypaper.

But in this international feast of problems, it's a long way from the first innocent-looking courses to the real jawbreakers having to do with nuclear arms, missiles, Sputniks, nagging nation pacts and iron-clad guarantees. And it's a long way, too, from the first course to the one which will offer any hope that Soviet communism will call off its relentless political war against the West.

Khrushchev mentioned all the courses of this proposed international banquet except the last. Is he figuring on letting his fellow banqueters in on the dessert?

Two Promotions Revealed At Tobyhanna Signal Depot

TOBYHANNA—Two promotions were announced here at the Tobyhanna Signal Depot yesterday.

Second Lt. William Wade Rickman was promoted to first lieutenant and Second Lt. Lynn E. Sailer, Troop Information Officer, was also named to first lieutenant.

Rickman, who lives in Tobyhanna, is assigned to the depot as assistant to the Chief of Stock Control Division. He is a native of Hartsville, Tenn.

College Graduates

Rickman is a graduate of Tomsdale County High School and Tennessee Polytechnic Institute. He entered the Army in July of 1956 at Fort Monmouth, N. J.

Sailer, who also lives in Tobyhanna, is a native of Illinois and also entered the Army in July of 1956 at Fort Monmouth.

Sailer is a graduate of Freeport High School and Knox College, Galesburg, Ill.

New Lines In Paris Fashions

PARIS, Jan. 28 (AP)—Paris introduced the "scythe" and "spoon" lines today at the spring fashion openings. They're both the sack shape from last year—only more so.

The scythe line, as introduced by Pierre Cardin, is a sort of humpback sack. The spoon shape, in Jacques Heim's show, is a flat, straight-hanging front and a full-bloused back. Heim's skirts, 18 inches from the floor, bare half the knee cap.

"The body," announced Cardin grandly, "is out of style. Nowadays, it takes the form of the dress."

And the dress, in the Cardin salons, just lets go behind. Often fullness is caught in again at the hem for a bloomer effect. His hemlines flirt with the knee-cap—now you see them, now you don't.

Eye-Popper

One Cardin eye-popper was a long-legged gold lame bathing suit, for midnight bathing when the water might be cold.

Long-suited jackets are sometimes gathered into a band or belt just under the derriere, and others have a split tail. But there are lots and lots of short unfitted suit jackets, too.

In general, three opening day shows—Patou, Heim, and Cardin—have shown that the sack is here to stay awhile. There are modifications, and even some fitted sheaths and belted models, but the loose middle still leads. Skirts so far are uniformly short.

Patou put them barely below the knee.

Leading colors have been beige, off-white, blue, orange to pink and red. There even were some polka dots and stripes, but mainly in linings, blouses or hats.

Cardin showed some shocking combinations: pink with red, purple with blue, orange with red. His new materials included thick printed mohair or angora woolen, a sort of chain mail gold jersey, and a lacquered chinty print for a raincoat.

Inter-Church Program Set For Housing

BUCK HILL FALLS—An inter church program to break down segregation in city housing was announced here today by Dr. Ray Gibbons, New York City, director of the Council for Social Action of the Congregational Christian Churches.

Five denominations will begin work next fall in three cities to be named to persuade their church members to fight for desegregation in housing and for racially integrated churches.

Organizations sponsoring the program are Council on Christian-Social Progress of the American Baptist Convention; Dept. of Social Welfare, United Christian Missionary Society, Disciples of Christ; Board of Social and Economic Relations, the Methodist Church; Dept. of Social and Economic Relations, Presbyterian Church, USA, and Council for Christian-Social Action, United Church of Christ (Congregational Christian and Evangelical and Reformed).

Three Cities

The three cities of the pilot operation, which Dr. Gibbons said is "wholly exploratory," will be selected according to 13 criteria including "the availability of a group of committed men and women willing to constitute a local advisory board and work with a full time director."

An office will be set up in each of the three cities. The sum of $175,000 will be sought by the cooperating agencies to finance the experiment in three cities for three years.

"The main purpose of this unique project is to develop public opinion favorable to desegregation and thus to influence community practices and attitudes," Dr. Gibbons said.

Another speaker yesterday was Dr. Ray E. Phillips, who has just returned to this country for retirement after 40 years of social work in Johannesburg, South Africa.

Dr. Phillips told the mid-winter meeting of Congregational Christian Churches that the people of Africa have an unlimited faith in America and Americans "in spite of Montgomery's and Little Rock's and Ku Klux Klan reports."

"The Africans have a faith in us that is embarrassing at times and they will gladly accept and prove eminently worthy of anything we may be able to do to strengthen our contacts with them in these days of their sore trial," Dr. Phillips said.

He cited six hopeful elements in the situation—1. The English press has been "increasingly bold" in pointing out the increasing disabilities of the native people and the necessity for modification.

2. Schools are being built and more children are being given elementary education than ever before.

3. After many years of inactivity in providing new homes for urban Africans, there is "an astonishing program by the city council of Johannesburg, the Union government and the leading mining companies to provide homes for workers in the urban areas. A definite program for the erection of 49,000 houses is now being pushed in the Johannesburg gold mining area alone."

Conference

4. A multi-racial conference was held in December with 300 delegates from different racial groups where moderate resolutions were passed.

5. Employers are becoming increasingly concerned over the situation. "Industry is booming, demanding more and more workers which runs counter to government policy of separation of all black workers from white and sending back all black workers to their homes in the country."

6. The World Council of Churches is making a study of the situation under the title, "What is the Responsibility of the Christian Church in This Area of Rapid Change?"

Another speaker, Miss Lillian Picken of Satara, India, missionary for 43 years, pleaded for training of new leaders and "sheer compassion" of Americans for Indians. "And above all India hunger for the gift of God," she said.

Estate Of Star

'Family Night' To Be Held By Church

THE MONTHLY "Family Night Supper" gathering of members and friends of the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church will be held today at 6:15 p. m. in the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church dining room.

This "family" affair is sponsored by the Woman's Society of Christian Service with a different circle serving as hosts for the supper.

This month Circle Five, of which Mrs. Pearly Hunt is the leader, will be in charge of the supper itself. Each family who attends brings a dish of food to share on the buffet table—the meat course, bread, butter and coffee is provided.

Several of the Sunday school classes and the several circles promote the attendance for these suppers.

This time there will be a "Children's Party" held in the basement of the parish house, following the supper itself, and the program for adults includes a brief worship service. Presentation of a discussion starter film, "Workers Together With God" will be held simultaneously.

Multiple Purpose
Rev. Harold C. Eaton, pastor of the church, states that these "family night gatherings" have a multiple purpose. They bring together in a church function, entire families, they are a time of informal, friendly fellowship and a program to build a more effective church.

During the coming months much concentration will be given to making this monthly family night.

Suit Against Ronson Dismissed

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 28—A patent infringement suit, brought by the Sperry Rand Corp. against a wholly-owned subsidiary of Ronson Corp., has been dismissed in the U. S. District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania.

The announcement was made today by Louis V. Aronson, II, President of Ronson, a major manufacturer of lighters and electric shavers.

Aronson said that Federal District Court Judge William H. Kirkpatrick in a final judgment rejected a complaint by Sperry Rand, maker of Remington electric shavers, against Ronson Service, Inc., of Pennsylvania.

Chief Complaint
The judgment followed a trial before Judge Kirkpatrick in Easton, in 1957. Sperry Rand charged in the complaint and at the trial that the Ronson "66" electric shaver infringed upon certain Remington shaver patents.

Aronson reported that the court dismissed the Sperry Rand suit "on the merits", and directed that Ronson's court costs be paid by Sperry Rand.
